BACKGROUND

In the Order Directing the Filing of Standards, the Commission directed the North American Electric Reliability Corporation (NERC) to develop and file proposed reliability standards that “will require certain registered entities to take steps or demonstrate that they have taken steps to address physical security risks and vulnerabilities related to the reliable operation of the Bulk-Power System.”¹ The standards are specifically to address: (1) the identification of facilities that are critical to reliability; (2) the evaluation of potential threats and vulnerabilities related to those facilities; and (3) the development and implementation of security plans.² Proposed standards are to be filed within ninety (90) days and will be considered by the Commission in a rulemaking docket, with parties provided an opportunity to file comments.³

MOTION FOR LEAVE TO INTERVENE

Security Oracle (formerly A Secure America, Inc.) is a visionary security consultancy whose overarching principle is to secure the nation’s critical infrastructure by providing business, industry, and government with credible expertise in applying benchmark and germane performance-based risk assessment methodologies, and by development of survivable and interoperable physical and information security protection systems. Security Oracle is a recognized expert in security supporting infrastructures for chemical and industrial infrastructure, including: electric power, communications systems, water and wastewater, pipelines (e.g., water, gas, petroleum products, hazardous chemicals), systems controls and data acquisition (SCADA) infrastructure, and high value, critical technology and one of a kind assets like those associated with fracking operations and processes.

As a recognized security expert, including in the field of electric power, Security Oracle can provide valuable insights and assistance to the Commission, NERC, and industry participants in this proceeding. Security Oracle will also be directly and significantly affected by the outcome of this proceeding, as the standards developed in this proceeding will become applicable to its existing and future clients. Such interests cannot be adequately represented by any other party hereto. Under these circumstances, Security Oracle submits that good cause exists to grant it leave to intervene in this proceeding.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, for the reasons set forth above, Security Oracle respectfully requests that it be permitted to intervene in this proceeding and be made a party for all purposes thereto.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Douglas F. John
